

EDITORIAL

Dear Colleagues,

I am proud to announce the 4th volume 2nd issue of European Eye Research. In this issue, there are 7 research articles, 3 case reports and 1 review.

Two of the 7 research articles are valuable studies in the field of glaucoma, two in retina, one in cornea, one in neuro-ophthalmology and one in ocular oncology. I think you will read with interest.

The case reports in this issue are also interesting. In this issue, there is also a good review on Bowman layer transplantation, which really opens our horizons.

The journey of European Eye Research started on the 23rd of April 2021. Today we are proud to be included in many important indexes in such a short time. I would like to extend my endless thanks to the esteemed editorial board members who have made significant contributions to this important success, to you our esteemed researchers who have contributed with their valuable scientific studies, to our valuable referees who support our researchers by evaluating the articles, and to Kare Publishing which has always supported us. There is a long road ahead of us and I firmly believe that we will be walking and growing together.
