

Editorial

Dear colleagues,

Hereby we publish the third and final issue of our young Northwestern Medical Journal for the year 2021. We hope to maintain our high standards for medical publishing in the new year.

The reason for early publication of the third issue in September instead of December was due to the new circumstance for our publisher. We are grateful to our publishing team for their patient and persistent efforts in the first steps of our journal.

We are also grateful to our authors, readers, reviewers, editorial and advisory boards for their encouraging efforts in 2021. We hope to maintain this approach in the subsequent years as well. Hope to meet again in April 2022 with a new and fresh breathe.

Best regards,
Prof. Ahmet URAL, M.D.
Editor-in-chief